

b. Mr. Marceca's June 11, 1996 Grand Jury Testimony.

On June 11, 1996, Mr. Marceca appeared before a federal grand jury investigating the Travel Office matter. He testified that when he began to work on the Update Project, he went to the vault in the office and found the tray containing a computer-generated list that he believed the Secret Service had provided and was "the same list that Nancy [Gemmell] showed me."<sup>116</sup> He also testified that he did not recall that the list designated individuals using "A" (for active) or "I" (for inactive).<sup>117</sup> When asked whether he used the same list the entire time, he replied, "I worked on that same list" and "d[id] not recall having it updated."<sup>118</sup> Finally, he testified that it was "[his] understanding when [he was] working off that list . . . that all the people on that list were current . . . White House passholders" and that "[i]t never occurred to [him] . . . that there were people on that list who no longer held a White House pass."<sup>119</sup>

c. Mr. Marceca's June 18, 1996 House Deposition.

In his June 18, 1996 House deposition, Mr. Marceca was questioned about whether he ever realized there were "problems"
